

Chapter 1 Answer Key: RV Rental for Beginners

| The Big Idea

RV marketplaces are peer-to-peer marketplaces.

One of the most well known examples of a peer-to-peer marketplace is Airbnb, where people can share housing, get paid securely, and be covered by the marketplace's insurance.

RV rental marketplaces should provide, at a minimum, these five things:

- 1. Insurance to protect your RV in case of accidents or damage caused while your RV is rented out.
- 2. Marketing services to help your rig get rented.
- 3. Communication tools to help you vet rental requests and stay in touch with your guests in a secure way.
- 4. Calendar tools to manage your bookings and block out the dates when you don't want your RV available for rent.
- 5. Tips for renting successfully.

| Reasons for Renting Out Your RV

1. RV rental marketplaces help you rent many types of RVs.
2. People generally rent out their RV to make extra income and run their own business.
3. Meeting cool, outdoorsy renters is an added benefit.
