

Chapter 5 Answer Key: Rental Platforms

| Listing Your RV Rental

When it comes to renting out your RV, one of the biggest decisions you'll have to make is which platform to list it on.

It's almost always best to get started by choosing one RV rental platform that best fits your needs.

If you try to list on more than one calendar, you'll run the risk of getting double booked.

| RV Rental Platform Options

Outdoorsy has a fun vibe and seriously promotes the outdoor lifestyle as part of its marketing.

Outdoorsy is the only major RV rental platform that covers vehicles older than 15 years.

RVshare helps renters with trip planning by featuring curated trip itineraries on its blog.

RVshare helps you find renters by featuring listings in categories such as "pet-friendly RVs" or "rigs near national parks."

RVezy started in Canada and has rapidly grown into one of the largest peer-to-peer RV rental marketplaces.

RVnGO is smaller but doesn't take a commission for any booking made on its platform—this means that the RV owner gets to keep 100 percent of the money that comes in.
