

Chapter 6 Answer Key: Listing Your RV

| Best Practices for Your RV Rental Listing

1. Photos, photos, and more photos are key to a great RV rental listing.
2. Your listing headline serves to capture a renter's attention and will help them decide if they want to read more.
3. Your listing description should include all of the details about your RV and its amenities.
4. You should also include local attractions in your listing description.

| Listing Rules

1. Each RV rental platform gives you the opportunity to set your own rules that determine how, when, and at what price people can book your RV.
2. Try to set a price that's in the middle of the price range for similar RV rentals in your area.
3. Depending on the value of your rig, security deposits can range from $500 to $1,500 or more.
4. The RV rental platform will let you choose the type of cancellation policy (flexible or strict) that you want.

| Other Listing Options

1. Add-ons like bikes, generators, s'more kits, airport pick-up/drop-offs, and other features can be great ways to earn extra money and add more value for your guests.
2. Most RV rental platforms have a built-in system where you can create add-ons and set daily or one-time pricing.
